Description

This decade has brought with it a bundle of confusion regarding gender roles and responsibilities. It appears both men and women are looking for ways to identify themselves and influence the opposite sex in constructive and lasting ways. Books such as John Gray's Venus and Mars series and the "Rules" book authored by two traditionalist women are best sellers, reflecting our current thirst for understanding of gender based issues. This workshop explores the way in which men and women identify themselves, and how they use gender based skills to influence the thinking and behavior of others.

About the Trainer

Lou Vincent is the Products and Production Manager with the firm of Rizzo & Associates. He has also served the firm as a trainer and consultant for over a decade.

Prior to coming to Rizzo & Associates, he was employed as a Supervisory Administrator at Boys Village, a residential treatment center for adolescent boys in Smithville, Ohio. He holds a certification in Organizational Behavior from Herriot Watt University in Scotland and is currently a Master's Candidate in their MBA program.

Lou's "pleasing personality" and down-to-earth wisdom make for an insight-provoking, pleasant, and interesting training experience. He has conducted over 2500 seminars with audiences from governmental institutions, health care facilities, and associations. He specializes in the topics of diversity, human resource development, systems approaches and workplace violence.
